Apache Corporation named a top workplace in Houston for second year in a row

HOUSTON, Nov. 6, 2017 – Apache Corporation has been selected by the Houston Chronicle as a 2017 Top Workplace. The company ranked 11th in a list of large employers, up from 15th in 2016.

The selection was based on employee feedback received in an engagement survey administered by Energage, formerly WorkPlaceDynamics, LLC that measured organization health and workplace engagement.

“Apache is proud to receive this recognition for a second year in a row. We say our employees are our greatest asset because it’s their hard work and dedication that make Apache a great company and a great place to work,” said Apache Corporation CEO and President John J. Christmann IV.

The complete list of 2017 Top Workplaces was published in the Nov. 6 Sunday edition of the Houston Chronicle and is available online at <http://www.chron.com/business/top-workplaces/>.
